Observing and reporting are vital to the health and safety of the patient in home health care. Because the patient is at home, the HHA may be the first person to notice the signs of a serious health problem. Careful observation and prompt reporting are an important part of the HHA's responsibilities.

LESSON OBJECTIVES

After completion of this program, the home health aide will be able to:

- Describe the difference between a sign and a symptom
- List three signs that require an immediate report to the nurse
- Describe observations needed for one body system, such as circulatory
- List nonverbal signs of pain

Contents of this lesson:

- A clearly written fact sheet
- A 10-question post-test to measure understanding of the subject matter
- An answer sheet with a place for the instructor's comments and signature
- An illustrative, homecare-specific case study
- Suggested supplemental learning activities
- An attendance log and certificate of completion
