Visible Women in East Coast Malay Society: On the Reproduction of Gender in Ceremonial, School and Market (Oslo Studies in Social Anthropology) Ingrid Rudie

Returning to Malaysia after twenty years, Ingrid Rudie explores the continuities and changes within the East Coast Malay society, with respect to historical events and life situations of women. By combining strict empirical analysis with a reflective understanding of the informants' perspectives on their lives, Rudie has made a significant contribution to the study of Malaysian culture. Focusing primarily on gender, the book gives an account of family life and education as well as the economic and ceremonial life of this society. In order to approach the mechanisms of cultural reproduction, Rudie explores the interaction between large scale historical processes and small scale biological events.
